

Former Olympika Gymnastics athlete Alexander Rozenshteyn just performed at the 2023 FIG Trampoline & Tumbling World Championships. The competition took place between Thursday, November 16 - Saturday, November 18 in Birmingham, England.

Rozenshteyn competed in the Men's Synchronized Trampoline - Age Group 3, Rozenshteyn and his partner, Nathaniel Erkert scored 5th with a 46.720.

Alexander Rozenshteyn & Nathaniel Erkert at the 2023
FIG Trampoline & Tumbling World Championships

In the Men's Trampoline - Age Group 3 division of competition, Rozenshteyn scored a 93.390, securing 23rd among 72 total places.

Due to the Olympic Games this summer, Sasha has no upcoming World Championships. However, he will soon compete in the qualifications for the Indo-Pacific Championships which will take place in Canada this August.

He is also planning to attend the Winter Classic this March in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, as well as the Elite Challenge this May in Irving, Texas.

Rozenshteyn started gymnastics at the age of 3 and soon realized his passion for the sport.

Alexander traveling to the 2023 FIG
Trampoline & Tumbling
World Championships

Alexander representing America
at the same meet

Alexander isn't the only trampoline gymnast in the family, though. Rozenshteyn's younger brother also competes in the sport.

Anthony Rozenshteyn at the Loulé Cup

In October, he competed at the 16th International “Loulé Cup” Competition in Portugal. He scored third in the individual trampoline competition with a score of 43.800.

Both boys definitely have bright futures. Who knows where they will be a few years from now?